DAYLIGHT SAVING VS. STANDARD TIME

Norway Going Through Throes of a Big Decision—Business Men Consulted—Many Go On Daylight Saving Monday, May 5

Norway and South Paris are "all het up" in a question of changing to daylight time. The townspeople hardly know where they are at, for there has been much talk for and against a change, with many lukewarm, but willing to accept whatever may come.
An notice was issued Tuesday by D. K. Mason, secretary of the Norway and Paris Manufacturers' Association, to the members that factories in the association will change to daylight saving beginning Monday, May 4. This is said to be in accordance with an agreement made at a council of representatives several weeks ago.
Members of the Association are Jellison-Rafter Co., Norway Shoe Co., C. B. Cummings & Co., W. P. Tobbs Co., Novelty Turning Co., all of Norway. The South Paris members, Paris Mfg. Co., Mason Mfg. Co., and the Macbura Novelty Company.
Being unable to make a comprehensive item from the information obtainable three papers were sent to as many of the business men in town as possible, Thursday, May 4. These papers, with the various opinions were as information previously gathered showed a division. The result is as follows:
I AM going on daylight saving time, Monday morning, May 5th:
Jellison-Rafter Co.
Novelty Turning Co.
Richardson's Market.
Cleveland, No. 250, Giles George.
W. H. Greenleaf.
C. B. Bradford.
W. H. Hutchins.
Walter E. Jones.
H. B. Stedwell.
First National Store, Inc.
Jellison-Rafter Company.

VITAPHONE INSTALLED AT REX THEATRE

A vitaphone equipment has been installed at Rex Theatre and will be used soon in conjunction with the photo film sound pictures first shown at Rex Theatre last night.
Under this dual arrangement, Manager Arthur Harrison will be in a position to give his patrons about everything worthwhile in the talkie market.
It is interesting to note the wide difference in the method of collecting the sound for reproduction behind the screen. In the phonofilm, the vibrations producing sound are taken from the film, while in the vitaphone the sound is picked up by a microphone and sent to the speaker.
When bookings are completed, the subjects will probably follow closely those shown at the Priscilla Theatre in Lewiston.

GRANGE MAY BALL

The committee for the Norway Grange May Ball and entertainment are busy. Everyone is asked to send in the name of some young lady to be May Queen. Put your choice on a post card and mail to Mrs. Adelaide Young or Mrs. Eva J. Vorens, care of the Grange, May 4. From these names the six having the most nominations will be published by posters.
Every ticket bought for either the supper or entertainment that night, May 6th, entitles the holder to vote at one of the booth upstairs in the Hall for one of these six chosen for May Queen. Three auditors, interested, will count the votes at the beginning of the program, and at the close of the program the one having the most votes will be crowned May Queen and presented with suitable gifts. She will lead the march with her partner and the other ladies present with theirs, as this number will be Ladies' Choice. The march will form into an American Circle and the ladies will sit in and change partners at each end of the signal. Voted for the ball, the ladies will be present for the entertainment at 8 o'clock to count.
The program will be entertaining, instructive and amusing. An Arbor Day feature will be the first number, a short playlet, The Hayseeder Get Their Pictures Took will be presented. The first big moving picture production, all talking, including, entitled "Springtime" will be shown at the Millville and Crockett Ridge Follies. An attractive number will be the May Pole Dance just before the crowning of the Queen. Illustrated songs are introduced in the burlesque "Springtime".

Mr. Josiah Witham fell, recently, and cracked a rib.

Arthur "Mickey" Welch arrived Thursday from his winter sojourn in St. Petersburg, Florida. He was on the road for six days and motored exactly 1,001 miles. Mickey had a profitable winter as a real estate operator and plans to go back in the fall to keep on making money. The time passed quickly for there were six days and nights of fun and frolic. Mickey has a sporting disposition. He has taken a lease of the Marigold Tea Room at Norway Lake and will have hand lunches during the summer. Upon reaching home he found his garage had been entered and about everything removable was taken from his coupe. Visitors also went through his house, but nothing is missing.

THE Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist church served a public supper, Tuesday evening to a large crowd, and at 8 o'clock the drama, "The Mystical Friends."

The girls were very pretty in their colorful spring dresses, appropriate for the house party they were attending, and the story was well adapted for the boys and girls of their age. The high school orchestra furnished music during the evening. While at the supper tables, Mrs. Pliny A. Allen, who has been superintendent of the primary department, was crowned with the Little people, was presented with a silver covered dish from the Sunday school as a token of appreciation for her work.
Mrs. Chas. H. Sargent and Mrs. Henry B. Foster entertained, Tuesday afternoon, at Ben's Tavern, at luncheon and bridge. The table decorations were snapdragons. Twenty-five were present. In the evening, besides the hostesses, were Mrs. Faneuf, Mrs. Mary Bicknell, Mrs. Bertha Lovjoy, Mrs. Ellen Whitman, Miss Jessie Everett, Marjorie Stevens, Mrs. Mary Lewis, Miss Alice Skillings, Mrs. Abbie Heath, Mrs. Gladys Rich, Mrs. Rita Lobbey, Mrs. Mary Holden and Mrs. Caroline Smith.
The Sisters have accepted the invitation of the Knights to the Ladies' Night supper, entertainment and dance on this evening.
A number of Sisters motored to Yarmouth the evening of April 23, to be visiting night at Glen Royal Temple. The Temple at Woodfords was represented by their officers and staff to exemplify the work and to receive first prize. Mrs. Addie Lovjoy, Mrs. Sadie Lapham, Mrs. Florence Faneuf and Mrs. Grace Starbird of South Paris.

Pythian Sisters Notes

Mrs. Addie Lovjoy was hostess Tuesday evening to a party of seventeen oficers of Lake Temple and guests at her home. A lunch was served with jollification and the evening was devoted to singing and a time given to music. The guests were Mrs. Nettie E. Nevers, Mrs. Sadie Lapham, Mrs. Marjorie Stevens, Mrs. Florence Faneuf, Mrs. Mary Bicknell, Mrs. Bertha Lovjoy, Mrs. Ellen Whitman, Miss Jessie Everett, Marjorie Stevens, Mrs. Mary Lewis, Miss Alice Skillings, Mrs. Abbie Heath, Mrs. Gladys Rich, Mrs. Rita Lobbey, Mrs. Mary Holden and Mrs. Caroline Smith.

Norway Jumps Pine Tree League

Dissatisfaction of Tactics and General Management.

A bomb was exploded in the Pine Tree League headquarters early this week, when the executive committee of the Norway Baseball Association notified Clifford Howe, president of the league, that the team was withdrawn.
The decision was an after thought, following a meeting of the league directors with President Howe, at Lewiston, Saturday night. Affairs have not moved serenely for Norway fans, and apparently the swing of matters was not satisfactory to the local committee, after hearing the report of Robt. B. Dow, last year's manager of team and secretary-treasurer of the league. Mr. Dow attended the meeting and it is understood he expressed himself toward semi-professionalism in the plans for the season and location of the team. Norway's Census

Census Now Being Taken—Contest for Guesses Closed.

Uncle Sam's decennial census is about completed, and the Advertiser contest for guesses how Norway registers, closed April 26. Opinions vary in the local contest based partly on the enumerations since 1880 and by comparisons the past ten years. Norway's official population in the past forty years has been as follows: 1880, 3665; 1900, 2902; 1910, 3002; 1920, 2965.

PARIAL SOLAR ECLIPSE

The partial eclipse of the sun, predicted for April 28th, arrived on schedule, with not a cloud in the sky to obscure the vision.
About 2:17 p. m., the moon started its journey, apparently across the face of the sun. It was several minutes later before observers peering through smoked glass noticed anything unusual.
As seen from this section, the shadow started from the western side and passed over in the northeast limb. When at its height, about 3:30, the sky had a pronounced copper color, with the effect on the scenery of a cloud passing, and darkness ensued. Everything was over before five o'clock.
Astronomers predict a total eclipse will be seen in Maine late in August, 1932, with the line of totality passing near this section.

NEW COUNTY A. A. OFFICE

The Maine Automobile Association (A. A.) is considering opening a branch office in each county in the State and Norway is being considered as the town for Oxford County. George W. Skillew, secretary of the association, who is here securing membership to the association and has rooms at Mrs. Florence Bradbury's. A strong effort is being made to secure membership at this time. The branch office located here would be a help to motorists, tourists, and the securing of number plates and licenses. Mr. Skillew is an uncle of Herman Fisher of Marston Street.

NORWAY GRANGE

The program for the 25th, arranged by Marjorie Judkins, was fine and much enjoyed by a good sized audience.
Vocal duet (encore)..... Anna Holt, Faneuf, and Benoit.
Reading..... Mrs. Harriet Waite.
Her husband, who cares for baby.
Hawaiian Song (encore)..... Violet Olson.
Three Readings..... Eleanor Wood.
Piano solo (encore)..... Esther Ray.
Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.
April 26th was an ideal day for Norway Grange to entertain visitors. After the routine work, Past Master H. Holman welcomed the guests. Roy Dresser, Crooked River Grange, gave the response. Music on the harmonica by Grant Abbott; a reading, with encore, by Neil Exelrod, Crooked River Grange, and remarks by Mr. Scribner, Mrs. Goodwin and Mr. Day closed the morning session. A bountiful dinner was served at noon.
The afternoon program was as follows:
Selection..... Dennis Pike, bones; Carolyn Smith, piano.
Address..... W. G. Crawford, District Secretary of the Sheep and Wool Growers.
Readings..... Brother James Neil.
Vocal Solo, The Barefoot Trail, Irene Freeman.
Musical reading..... Josephine Caswell, accompanied by Mrs. George Skillings.
Surprise feature, An Easter Scene.
The following committees were named: supper committee for May 9: Edith Elliott, hostess; Mrs. Wm. B. Nevers, Flora Newcomb, Ethel Dunn, Annie Brown, Jennie Millett and Ada Kilgore. Committee for Mothers' Day, May 10: Charlotte Longley, Violet Dayton and George H. Nevers.
This will be the first evening meeting and opens at 7:30.
Benjamin Decosta returned to Hebron, Sunday, after visiting a week at his home here.
Mrs. J. F. Swain, who has spent the winter in South California, is visiting on her way home, in Cheyenne, Wyoming. Sweetwater, Tennessee; Rochester, Ill., and Boston, Mass., and will arrive home about May 10th.
The fire department answered the call of the 11 o'clock service at the Congregational Church, Sunday morning, to fight a fire of some proportions in the woods on Crockett's Ridge, near Dennis Pike's farm. Practically the entire department was rushed to the scene in automobiles with the selection in charge. Not much damage was done, because of quick action in gathering the crowd of fighters.
Herbert Bradbury has been appointed caretaker and sexton at Norway Pine Grove Cemetery, taking the place of Jesse Thomas, who resigned on account of ill health. Work of putting the cemetery in condition, after the winter, is progressing with Keith Bradbury, Windfield Eesay and Bert Melvin as the assistants. Some thirty bodies placed in the tomb during the winter are being interred.
Rev. Pliny A. Allen, Jr., preached his farewell sermon at the Universalist church, Sunday morning, to a good sized congregation. He delivered a fine sermon on "I Am an Optimist". He preached at the 11 o'clock service at the Congregational church and was again greeted by a large congregation. Rev. and Mrs. Allen and family left town, Wednesday, for their new home at North Adams, Mass.

Norway Jumps Pine Tree League

Dissatisfaction of Tactics and General Management.

A bomb was exploded in the Pine Tree League headquarters early this week, when the executive committee of the Norway Baseball Association notified Clifford Howe, president of the league, that the team was withdrawn.
The decision was an after thought, following a meeting of the league directors with President Howe, at Lewiston, Saturday night. Affairs have not moved serenely for Norway fans, and apparently the swing of matters was not satisfactory to the local committee, after hearing the report of Robt. B. Dow, last year's manager of team and secretary-treasurer of the league. Mr. Dow attended the meeting and it is understood he expressed himself toward semi-professionalism in the plans for the season and location of the team. Mr. Dow attended the meeting and it is understood he expressed himself toward semi-professionalism in the plans for the season and location of the team.

One remedy for such electrical hazards is frequent re-inspection, but it is practically impossible to safeguard entirely against substandard extensions made by users of current. Those who have not been instructed in electrical work should not attempt any repairs, as poor wiring and the misuse of electricity cause a huge fire loss annually. According to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, the damage from such fires in 1928 totaled over $18,000,000.

All wiring should be done in accordance with the National Electrical Code and by authorized electricians. This precaution, if followed, will result in considerable saving in property losses from fire, as well as in fewer deaths and injuries.

When electrical repairs are made by some so called "handy man", short circuits followed by fire often result. Such was the case in an instance recently reported from New Orleans. In a room used for storage purposes several portable wires were plugged into a multiple attachment. One of the connections was made of wire originally intended for another use and poorly attached. The short circuit that occurred ignited the combustible contents of the room, and considerable damage resulted.

FEED THE GARDEN

And It Will Feed You

Little do we realize, as we see the garden in its luxuriant growth, what a complication of processes are necessary to produce this growth efficiently.

The sun, rain and temperature, all have their duties to perform—but most important of all is the soil from which the plant derives its food.

At this time of the year, when so many people are planning their gardens, it is well to recall a few of the more important points in preparing the garden seed bed.

All plants require plant food. The three most important are nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash.

These elements are best supplied by applying a commercial garden fertilizer. Also vegetables grow best in soils which have a good supply of decayed organic matter or humus.

Humus, which is supplied by applying manure or compost, not only adds plant food, but when applied to heavy clay soils it makes them looser and more friable; when incorporated in sandy soils, humus increases the water holding capacity.

However, even with a liberal supply of plant food and humus, many vegetables will not grow well if the soil is acidic, or sour.

Beets, lettuce, spinach, carrots, cauliflowers, cauliflower, onions, asparagus, and cabbage are especially sensitive to sour soils, and if the acidity is too intense a complete crop failure is apt to result.

The simple inexpensive corrective for sour soils is to apply lime. Different gardens vary in their lime requirements.

Where lime has not been applied for a number of years an application of from 40 to 60 pounds of hydrated lime (or other liming materials furnishing the equivalent in lime oxides) per 1,000 square feet will correct the acidity.

Thereafter an application of 25 to 40 pounds every three or four years will suffice.

If the above suggestions are followed and high quality seeds are planted in well-tilled seedbed, success is well nigh assured; the small investment in lime and fertilizer pays handsome dividends in the form of a flourishing crop of delicious, healthful vegetables.

EASTER COMES

After winter's stress and striving, After tempests rough, Easter comes all things reviving, Bringing vernal season mild.

After Lent's restraint and rigor, After yearnings long subdued, Easter comes to re-engage—Reawake to life renewed.

After Friday's cruel drama, After days of deepening gloom, Easter dawns, and life's Resurges glorious from the tomb.

After sore distress and sorrow, After seeming failure—less, Easter's coming on the morrow, Brings the triumph of the Cross.

So despite the soul's depression, Though we falter, faint and fall, Saved and healed by His Resurges, Easter ends the demon's thrall.

For in Christ's victorious rising, Foiled are Satan, Death and Sin; Heaven is opened by His franchising, All may freely enter in.

SAD BUT TRUE

Some one suggests that the only way to drive is with the idea constantly in mind that the other fellow may be an idiot," says the Los Angeles Times.

This is sad, but true. Recklessness seems to be part of the motoring code with the millions of American drivers.

The inevitable result is that, every year, 25 or 30 thousand persons are killed and hundreds of thousands injured in preventable automobile accidents.

The tragic part of it is that the enormous annual waste of life and property is almost entirely unnecessary. The preventable accident is rare as the dodo bird.

Someone is incompetent or reckless in the case of practically every collision, great or small, between motor cars.

The blame may be laid in two places. First is the apparent indifference of many motorists to the fundamentals of safety.

Second is the lack of strict licensing laws in most states to keep the incompetent and reckless off the road, and an accompanying lack of enforcement of modernized, commonsense traffic codes.

Oxford County United Parish

Embracing Albany, North Lovell, Stoneham and the Waterford. Pastoral Staff: Revs. W. L. Euk, B. F. Wentworth, C. Townsend, Pastor Elect: Rev. Ralph A. Brandon.

Rev. and Mrs. Wentworth attended the Maine Methodist Conference at Portland last week, returning Saturday for the Sunday services. Mr. Wentworth has accepted a position on the staff of a larger parish at Marietta, Md., and will leave for his new work about the middle of May. Rev. Ralph A. Brandon, who is graduated from Yale Theological Seminary, has accepted a call to succeed Mr. Wentworth on the staff of the Oxford County United Parish, and will come about the middle of June.

Rev. Bull and Townsend, with delegates for the Congregational Churches of the parish will attend the Maine Congregational Conference at Biddeford next week. Mr. Bull is president of the Conference and Mr. Townsend is to preach the annual sermon.

Rev. Mr. Bull is slowly recovering from his illness, but is still under the doctor's care.

The present week has a full schedule: Tuesday evening, a Circle supper at North Waterford; for Wednesday evening a Mother and Daughter Banquet for the parish at North Waterford, Rev. Hilda L. Ives will be the speaker. For Thursday afternoon and evening the bi-monthly meeting of the Council at the Wilkins House, Waterford. An address will be given in the evening by Rev. F. W. Rankin of South Bridgton, on Near East conditions as seen by an eye witness. On Friday evening a supper and pound party at the Grange Hall, North Waterford, for the benefit of the family of Horace Allen.

The North Waterford church building is receiving a new coat of paint and the needed repairs.

At Waterford the grounds about the new church and Wilkins Community House are being graded and seeded.

THE HARRISON
VERSUS
THE NAPLES VIA CASCO ROAD

Relative to an article in the Norway Advertiser of April 15th regarding the feeling of some people in Harrison, I wish to call attention to some facts omitted, and a different viewpoint of the facts stated, so an unbiased and disinterested person could easily tell whether the political interests, the Harrison people seem to know so well, is to be censured or congratulated for courage and stamina to stand for the lesser number of deserving people against the imposing array presented by the Harrison, Bridgton, Norway and South Paris people.

First it should be remembered that from actual count a much greater number of cars passed over the Naples via Casco road, than did the Harrison, Norway road, and good roads are first made where people travel most. Second, Bridgton, Harrison, Norway and South Paris are well served with railroads, cement roads and macadam roads, while Casco and its adjoining towns on the north and south were not so fortunate, but had only a mud road to get in and out on, to say nothing of even having a railroad train.

Now, then, if there is a political interest or person that will help people develop a road, when, though it is traveled more, yet does not control as many votes as does a road traveled less, but having a larger number of votes, well traveled, as far as roads and railroads are concerned, then I ask you if such political interest, or person, is not to be heartily congratulated for their courage and adherence to justice, rather than to be labeled as handing a "raw deal"?—R. E. Gay.

STATE OF MAINE
Dedicated to My Father.
Minot Dunning Gray

Where Birthplace was Naples, Maine
By Winnie Gray Curtis, North Bridgton, Me.
Maine—I sing of thee,
No other state for me,
I sing thy praise,
To you, State of my birth,
With pride I sing your worth.
Maine—best state on earth,
Here spend my days.
Noble sons you gave—
Generous, fine and brave
Whi State of Maine
Men who are ever true
To our Red, White and Blue.
Great love we give you
And Dear Old Maine.
May our forests stand
Give beauty to our land,
Dear State of Maine,
Your hills, your brooks, your flowers
Where we spend happy hours
Thank God—then at our,
I love thee, Maine.
I love your deep sea,
The blue sky over me,
I sing of thee.
Your sparkling, crystal lakes
Where man much pleasure takes,
Our happiness makes,
God bless thee, Maine.

WATERFORD

Five Birthdays Celebrated—Douglas Home from Georgia.

A very enjoyable social was held at the "Wilkins House" on Friday evening, April 25th, with a big crowd attending. The affair was for the celebration of the committee brought in five beautifully decorated birthday cakes and announced that the five people whose birthdays are in April must come forward and choose a cake, light the candles, also cut and pass the cakes.

It was noticed that the five who were so suddenly brought into publicity, began looking for a place to drop out of sight, but the committee evidently had foreseen this and all places of exit were carefully guarded. The cakes were pronounced just as delicious as they looked. The cake makers were Mrs. Blanche Tyler, Mrs. June Pike, Mrs. Benjamin Collins, Mrs. Amy Hubbard.

The people celebrating birthdays were Mrs. Don Ruggles, Mrs. Nellie Stone, Miss Virginia Tyler, Harold Pike, and Ben Collins. Excellent music for dancing was furnished by the Bradford Brothers, of Norway, on the combination Temple radio.

Mrs. Moria Lockwood Hubbell arrived on Sunday to visit her father, Charles Lockwood.

Edmund Douglas has arrived home, after a winter spent in Augusta, Georgia. Miss Dorothy Parks of Lewiston was in town Friday evening, and attended the social.

Charles Fillebrown has been ill and obliged to miss school for the first time in the two years he has attended Bridgton Academy.

Dresser Homestead Burned—Circulating Petition for Special Town Meeting—Visitors in Town.

The older dresser homestead was destroyed by fire, Saturday evening, between five and eleven o'clock. The house was owned by Fred and David McAllister, Jr., and occupied by David McAllister, Jr., and his family. As it was a very old house, with the big, old-fashioned chimney, brick oven and several fireplaces, it is probable the fire originated within the chimney and may have burned so long that the bricks became overheated and set fire to the woodwork. It was well under way before it was discovered. Help was summoned by telephone and most of the furniture and other belongings of the family were saved. We are sorry to see this house gone as it is one of the old landmarks which are dropping out one by one.

Mrs. Walter Canwell is improving and was able to ride out, Monday.

Ernest Grover and Cher Holt sawed wood for Elmer Healey, Saturday, with the gasoline outfit.

Mr. and Mrs. Merton Kimball and son, William, of South Waterford, were at Merritt, Savin's, Thursday, after a calf he bought of Mr. Savin.

David McAllister, Sr., recently bought two cows and two calves of Ernest Brown, of South Waterford, and is now through here recently, trying to interest the voters of this town in buying a tractor and snow plow for use on the roads here. He had with him a petition with many signatures requesting the calling of a special town meeting for the purpose of coming to a decision in favor of the matter.

W. A. Hersey of South Portland has recently visited his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Savin. Mr. Hersey had visited his son-in-law, Walter Whitman, at his former home at Bolster's Mills, and his son, Fred Hersey, and nephew, Charles Whitman, of North Waterford. Mr. Hersey has made his home with his son, George Hersey, at South Portland, since the death of his wife, nearly two years ago.

June Brown and brother, Don Brown, and Muriel Sloan of Norway attended the supper and entertainment given at the Wilkins House at Waterford Flat, Friday night.

Mrs. Annie Holt and son, Richard Holt, and Eddie Emerson of Norway, were at Merritt Savin's, Monday, last week.

George Damon of Norway was at Merritt Savin's, recently, after a truck load of hay for George Crocker. Mr. and Mrs. Crocker and Allen visited there, Sunday.

Arthur Millett of Waterford called at W. E. Canwell's, Sunday. Mrs. Millett and children, Howard, Sylvia, Barbara and Arthur Robert, stopped at Merritt Savin's while Mr. Millett was gone.

Kimball and son, Ivan, are at work on the road for Rob Hill. Jagella, Fred and David McAllister and Theodore Brown are at work with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis McAllister of Fryburg visited his brothers, Ingalls and David, last week. He took home the horse which David has wintered for him.

LYNCHVILLE
Wiring for Electric Lights

The Maine Central Power Co. is putting the electric line from Stoneham to Lynchville.

Fred McKee, Minnie McKee and Ed Hobson have their houses wired for electric lights. James Guntill will soon have his done.

Perley Adams has shipped his hens to B. & M. Poultry Co., in Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. Perley Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Otis L. Cobb called on Irene Adams at Center Lovell, April 27th.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Cobb called on Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand Emery of Fryburg, Sunday.

Mrs. Jesse Adams and son, Albert, took supper with her sister, Mrs. Perley Adams, Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett McKee visited his brother, Fred McKee, Sunday.

Minnie McKee has returned home from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Mary Cobb, of Norway.

Mrs. Ed. Hobson is boarding the men who are putting in the electric line.

NO. WATERFORD—ALBANY LINE

Lord Working at Norway—Fullerton's Home for Summer—Stone Gaining.

Frank Pike and family were at Walter Lord's, Sunday.

Stanley Lord has been offered a position in the meat market of his brother-in-law, Frank Pike, in North Conway, N. H.

Lee Lord is working for Virgil Dunn in Norway, commenced Monday.

The truck on which he worked in Stoneham had an axle break which threw him out of a job for a time.

June Brown was home from her school in South Waterford over the week end. Muriel Sloan came home with her.

ON "CURRENT COMMENTS"

Here are some wise sayings, based on the inevitable. We are moved to print them by a remark of a Maine man about a recent occurrence in a Maine College.

Said the middle aged parent of one of the boys—"it's their age, I was once a party to burning up the chapel doors".

So here are some favorite remarks at various ages—

At fifteen years of age, "Let's go NOW".

At eighteen, "We must show that we are MEN".

At twenty, "Gimme a chance—I'll show 'em".

At twenty-five, "It's all wrong. There must be a reform".

At thirty, "I'll live to see the dawn of a new day. In a few years the people will wake up and demand their rights".

At thirty-five, "I'd be rich if I'd stayed single".

At forty, "I'm sick of reformers".

At forty-five, "What of it?"

At fifty, "Thank God I've got a good bed".

At fifty-five, "The human race isn't worth saving".

At sixty, "I believed that once".

At sixty-five, "It won't work".

At seventy, "The world has changed".

Soaking any kind of fresh meat in water before cooking it is a mistake. It draws out the juices which give the characteristic flavor and add to its food value. Before cooking simply wipe off with a damp cloth or trim it.

Although the Pontiac Big Six gives you the performance advantages of a 60-horsepower engine and the comfort advantages of big, roomy, substantially built bodies by Fisher—it is one of the most economical cars you can possibly own!

Scores of leading business houses have standardized on Pontiac for this reason. And typical of their experience is this statement from one firm operating forty-four:

"From the standpoint of cost of operation, our experience with the Pontiac Six is that its cost per mile is less than that of any other make or type of car we have ever used. This includes all gasoline, oil, tires, insurance and depreciation."

Buying a Pontiac Big Six means the enjoyment of big car performance at small car cost. You save when you buy—while you are driving—and when you are ready to trade.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f.o.b.) price when comparing automobiles. Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

THE RISE OF TOM HADLEY

OPENING CHAPTER OF A STORY WRITTEN BY JUDGE CHARLES F. WHITMAN OF NORWAY

Chapter I
Introduction
Lakewood village in the summer of 19— was a beautiful place. It was situated on a lovely little lake, in a fruitful region of western New England. Elm and maple trees furnished fine shade for its streets in the days, and its white painted residences, with green blinds, and the neatly trimmed lawns and front yards indicated that the people generally, were well to do.

The business of the place was carried on in a few general stores, a post office, a drug store, a barber shop with a bath, a general store, a drug store, where the village papers and magazines were sold. The village had a town hall, a schoolhouse and three schoolhouses. The drug store was a lawyer's office. The village attorney was Joe Peters of Lakewood, a reputation and a trickster in the eyes of his profession—in consequence of which the cases he had to do were comparatively few and of little importance, so he felt that it was necessary to get along the best way he could, whether by hook or crook, or both. He was a "striker" of the same stripe and naturally had drifted into the pool room where something was doing and where of evenings and holidays idlers and others congregated, and where pretty much all the gossip about the doings of the people of the village was heard.

The better citizens expected that John Hadley's son, after graduation, would accomplish something for himself, for he was known to be unusually smart, and they were disappointed in his spending his time in the way he seemed to be doing.

Mr. Hadley, having heard on one occasion such unfavorable comments of his son, went home, one day from the post office, greatly vexed and pitched into Tom with some considerable severity, telling him what he had heard, and saying that it was high time he made up his mind what he was going to do, and be seeking a situation somewhere, and that it was unbearable to put up with his conduct any longer, if he wasn't going to do what he desired was best for him. "Don't father," said Tom, "Don't talk to me that way, or drive me from home. I mean to go and find a place for myself as soon as I can. I shall be twenty-one in three days, and I must get some things together that I will need. If you drive me away it will be a sad thing to think of when I am gone. Spare me that father, for mother's and Bessie's sakes. Bessie ran to Tom with tears running down her cheeks, exclaiming: "Oh Tom, dear. You shan't go away. If you do I shall go with you."

"You shall not send our boy away, John. Don't say anything you will regret," implored Mrs. Hadley.

"Well, Tom, I've had a good many sad things to think of respecting your conduct, hanging around that barber shop and pool room, particularly night after night, and week in and week out, associating with the riff-raff of the town, and disgracing yourself and your family. No Hadley of our race has ever got such bad name. My patience with you is thoroughly exhausted," snapped the father.

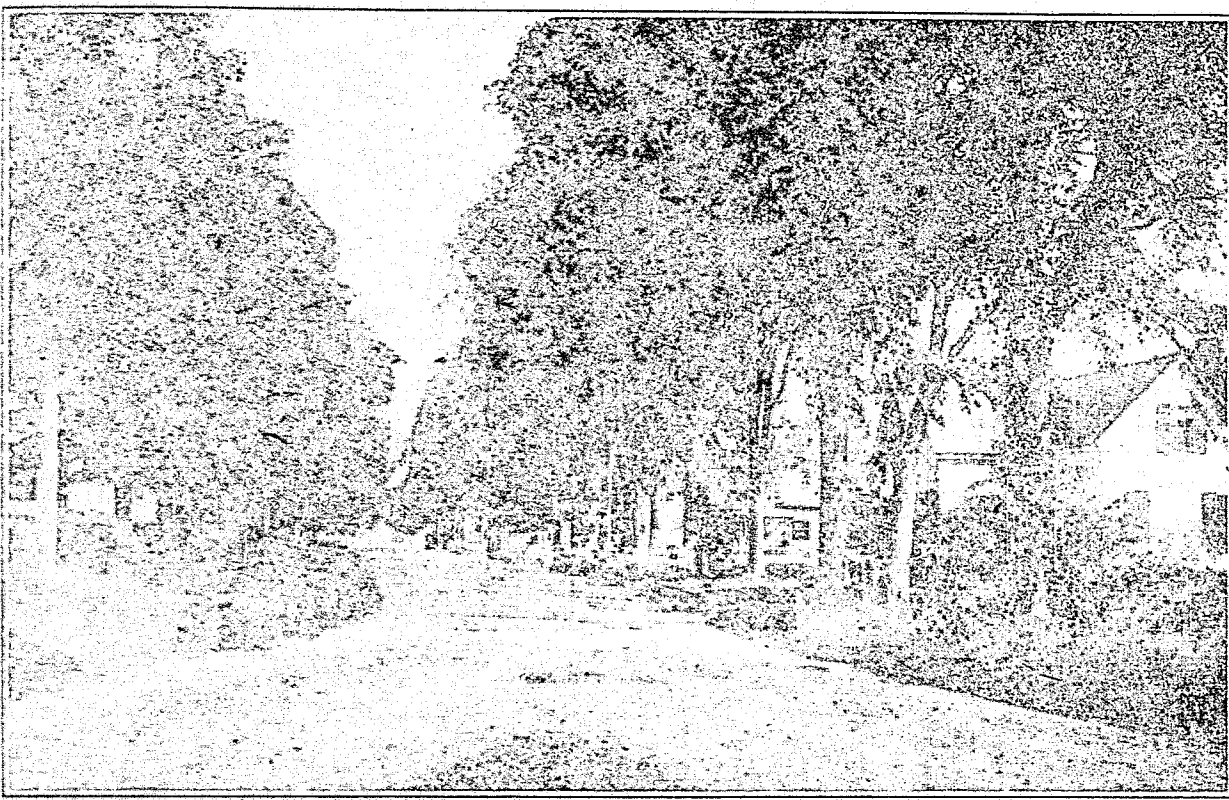

"The people who congregate in the barber shop and poolroom, father, are not all of the worst characters in town. I have learned a great deal from some I've seen there. I have not acquired any such bad habits there, as gambling, smoking, drinking, profanity or lying." These words greatly mollified the vexation of the parent and he said: "Well, well, Tom, I'm glad to hear that, but I'd be greatly pleased to see you doing something worthy of a Hadley, for you now have a good education and are too smart to be wasting your time where loafers congregate."

"Wait father, a little while longer, and I'll go away and find some kind of a job." This ended their talk, which was on a Saturday afternoon. As Mr. Hadley left the room, Bessie still clinging to her brother, while wiping the tears from her eyes, sobbed out: "Oh Tom, are you really going away? Oh, what shall I do when I shan't see you any more? Oh, oh."

"Don't cry, dear," said Tom, taking her in his arms and kissing away the tears. "When I get a situation and have a good place to board, if mother can spare you, you may come and stay with me."

"Oh, oh, goodie, goodie. You will let me go, won't you, mama?"

"We will see about it my little dear, when the time comes," the wise mother replied.

A MAIN STREET SCENE

himself, who brought him, as occasion offered, petty cases, and worked up business for him. His name was David Belton.

The magistrate, who tried the cases, thought before Albert Adams, who was regarded with respect by all the best citizens of the village and town. He was well off, and didn't have to depend for a living upon the fees he obtained as the village magistrate.

The most noteworthy resident of Lakewood, however, was John Hadley. His residence was just outside the main village. He had acquired by good management, a handsome property; had funds in a Boston bank, and a large amount of government bonds. Mr. Hadley had been a representative for several terms in the state legislature, and having obtained all the political honors he cared for, his only ambition was that his son, Tom, who about two years before had graduated with high honors at an educational institute of note, should become a lawyer.

At the time our story opens, the young man lacked a few days of being twenty-one years of age. He had not taken kindly to his father's wishes, but preferred a different business life. He had seen a number of such petty cases as Peters had brought before Justice Adams and his often crooked ways to maintain office, that he was greatly prejudiced against a practice, which oppressed the poor and unfortunate, and lacked, as he thought, all the elements of equity, justice and honesty. The father did not take the same view of the matter as his son. He knew that Peters was not a representative attorney and that members of that profession of character, who cared for their reputation, would shun all such disreputable methods of practice as Peters had the name of employing. Tom, however, seeing how the village lawyer managed without being disgraced from practice, or much censured by the people, generally, concluded that his father must be mistaken and determined to have nothing to do with the business—much as he disliked to oppose his father's wishes. What he desired was that his father would give up the idea of his fitting himself for a lawyer, and assist him to obtain a business position of some kind, but this Mr. Hadley refused to do, thinking that after a while, Tom would see that it was best for him to accede to his wishes, and it might have turned out that way, but for the encouragement in his course he received from his mother and sister, Bessie, then fifteen years old.

Mrs. Julia Hadley's chief pride was in her children and her greatest happiness was in ministering to their comfort and pleasure. John Hadley, engrossed in his business and more reserved in his ways than his wife, had not received the close confidence and tender affection of the children that their mother had, and who particularly felt that her husband should help Tom to start in the business world, in the way that he desired. So matters had drifted along for a long time after Tom's graduation from the institute. Mr. Hadley growing more and more impatient at his son's obstinacy and idleness, while Tom waited with what patience he could muster for his twenty-first birthday, when he had determined to start out and find some kind of a situation for himself. In his discontent he had attended the justice court hearings and sporting events the baser elements among the boys. This young fellow was Jake, son of David Barker. Jake was unprincipled—in fact a chip of the old block. He took every opportunity that offered, to pick upon and abuse Jim, chiefly because he was generally sounding Tom's praises.

Tom went to the Gordon house in the early part of the evening to see Jim for a parting call, as he planned to go away in the early morning of the following Monday. Not finding him at home, he concluded that Jim would be at the pool room, where he naturally expected to meet Tom, and there he went and found Tom, particularly night after night, and week in and week out, associating with the riff-raff of the town, and disgracing yourself and your family. No Hadley of our race has ever got such bad name. My patience with you is thoroughly exhausted," snapped the father.

"It's a bad practice and you mustn't do it. Besides you are no match for Jake. You are not in his class, and if you play with him, you will lose your money. Think how hard it is for your poor mother to get along."

"But, he stumped me to play, I didn't want to take that," meekly replied Jim.

"Stumped!" scoffingly replied Tom. "What does that amount to anyway? Only a low down, cheap fellow takes that way to induce boys younger than himself to gamble or fight with him." At these remarks Jake was beside himself with rage. "What are you interfering for?" he yelled at Tom. "What business is it of yours, I'd like to know! A pretty fellow you are to preach morality and good conduct to young boys, you loafer and idler. I'll teach you to mind your own business and not stick your nose into my affairs. I'm a low down, cheap fellow, am I? Take this for your insolence." With these words he struck at Tom, who skillfully warded off the blow with his left arm, and landing a determined thrust with his right fist between Jake's eyes, felled him to the floor with blood flowing from his nose. Rising to his feet Jake attempted to rush at and strike Tom, but was prevented by Ben Brown, the pool room operator, who had just entered the place. Bill Smith and Tim Jacobs, pals of Jake, who had been reading the baseball news in a daily Boston paper, gathered around to offer sympathy to him. As Jake left the place with them he dung this threat at Tom: "You will pay well for this job, I can promise you."

Tom wisely made no reply and soon after, with Jim, went away. Upon going home he went to bed—without saying anything to his folks of what had occurred and knowing the revengeful disposition of Jake and his enmity to him, to meditate upon the seriousness of the situation he found himself in, just as he was about to strike out for himself into a strange world.

WELCHVILLE

Woods Fire Tuesday

Clarence Staples was the hero of a fierce fire which swept 30 acres of woodland and for a time threatened 400 acres of standing timber owned by his father, Everett Staples, and farm buildings of Harold Pratt and S. O. Dudley.

When he saw the smoke rolling 500 feet into the air, young Staples sprang into action among the other students, commandeered a motor truck and with 25 or 30 of them, rushed to the scene of the fire and began fighting it. Armed with shovels, green brush and sticks, the boys put up such a battle that the others among the hundred or more volunteers, including a crew from the Grand Trunk Railroad, gave them credit for the lion's share in checking the spread of the flames.

The first that the elder Staples knew of the presence of his son was when he saw him and his "gang" in the thick of the fight.

Sparks from the locomotive of a Portland bound freight train are believed to have started the fire, which at one time swept the mountain side on a mile front.

BATES—WEST PARIS

April Weddings—Rev. Smith to Go to Naples—Annual Meeting Held.

Two West Paris young ladies have recently married: Mildred Alice Davis, daughter of Mrs. Phila Davis Mayhew, and the late Minot S. Davis, of Somerville, Mass., and Frederick Starret Rollins of Brighton, Mass., who were married April 19, by Rev. George Wolverson. They came here and spent two or three days last week, of their honeymoon trip, with her mother. Mrs. Rollins is a graduate of West Paris High School, Holton Academy and Farmington Normal School, also received the B. L. degree at the Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York, 1928. She has been teaching in Lexington, Mass. Mr. Rollins received his education in the public schools of Warren and Northeastern University, Boston. He is now office manager of the Boston motor truck branch of the International Harvester Co.

The other wedding occurred April 19 at Mechanic Falls, when Frederick Cummings of Quebec and Gladys L. Ross of West Paris were married by Rev. Frank Lamb. They will reside in Quebec. Mrs. Cummings is a daughter of John and Alice Ross of North Paris and Mr. Cummings is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cummings of Bryant's Pond and has a position as Custom House Officer at Quebec.

Next Sunday will be Rev. Geo. C. Smith's last service in this parish. The parish regrets his removal after only one year's residence here, but on account of his health, he has been transferred to Naples, an easier place, and Rev. A. E. Roberts of Southport will come here.

Last Sunday, while the pastor of the United Parish Church was away to the Methodist Episcopal Conference, the Christian Endeavor conducted the morning service. Rowena Verge had charge of the program. Ruth McKee read the scripture and Gerald Williams read the sermon, a selection on Prayer. The evening services for the week were omitted.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Perham and two children, of Groveton, N. H., came here to spend the Easter vacation with their parents. Mrs. Perham was taken ill while here and was taken to Roy Perham's, where she was cared for by Mrs. Vertie Crooker of Bryant's Pond.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sparrow and her mother, Mrs. Sara Curtis, of Portland, were in town last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Bowker and her mother, Mrs. Esther A. Tuell, and Mrs. Hilburn of Portland were calling on friends and relatives, recently.

Mrs. Mildred Smith's little son, Dwight, had had to have an operation on the lung, following an attack of pneumonia, at the St. Barnabas Hospital, Portland. He is doing as well as could be expected, after such a serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. George Goodall of Mechanic Falls visited at D. H. Fifield's, recently.

Last week, Tuesday evening, was the annual meeting of the Universalist Church parish, preceded by a supper. Guests for the evening were Rev. and Mrs. Stanley Manning and daughter and Rev. C. H. Emmons of Boston, who spoke during the evening. Rev. Eleanor E. Forbes will remain another year, making her ninth year here. The officers were elected as follows:

Moderator—H. H. Gammon.
Clerk—R. E. Chase.
Treasurer—Albin Abbott.
Trustees—A. C. Perham, R. E. Chase, Mrs. Abbie Abbott.
C. F. Barden, Mrs. Alice Chapman, Gerry Emery.

The annual meeting of the Arthur L. May Memorial Library will be held at the Library building Monday evening, May 5th.

BRYANT POND

Week End and Sunday Visitors—Newton Moved to Felt Rent—Drama Presented.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Taylor and daughter, Leatrice, of Oakland, spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Inez Whitman, and family, and sister, Mrs. Porter Swan, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Noyes and daughter of Oakland and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Noyes of South Paris were here Sunday to see their father, Charles Noyes, who is very sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Newton have moved into Miss Lena Felt's rent.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Brooks and son and Clyde Brooks, all of Portland, were Sunday visitors of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Brooks.

Dr. Mason Allen, wife and two sons, of Portland, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark C. Allen.

Harry L. Page of Andover is visiting relatives and friends in town.

Franklin Grange will hold their meeting Saturday evening, May 3rd, and a speaker on automobile insurance is expected.

The Senior Class of Woodstock High School presented their drama, Saturday evening, April 26, to a very large audience. It was a nice drama and the parts all well taken. The name of the drama was "Yimmie Vance and Yob." A good sum realized and the cast was as follows:
